GREELY RESCUED.

The Arctic Explorer Found by Commander Schley in Smith's Sound.

ONLY FIVE OF THE TWENTY-FIVE NOW ALIVE.

The Others Perish from Cold and Starvation—Two of the Rescued Men Die on the Homeward Journey—Terrible Suffering of the Party.

[illegible], July 17.—The following telegram was received at the navy department this morning:

St. Johns, N. F., July 17.

[illegible] William E. Chandler, secretary of the navy, Washington.—The Thetis, the Bear and the Loch Garry arrived here to-day from west Greenland, all well. Separated from the Alert 130 miles north of [illegible]. At 9 P. M. June 22, five miles off Cape Sabine, in Smith sound, the Thetis and the Bear rescued alive Lieutenant A. A. Greely, Sergeant Brainard, Sergeant Fredericks, Sergeant Long, Hospital Steward [illegible]beck, Private Connell and Sergeant Ellison, the only survivors of the Lady Franklin bay expedition.

Sergeant Ellison had lost both hands and feet by frost, and died July 6 at Godhaven, three days after amputation, which had become imperative.

DEATH FROM STARVATION.

Seventeen of the twenty-five persons composing the expedition perished by starvation at the point where the survivors were found. One man was drowned while sealing to procure food. [illegible] bodies of the dead were rescued and are now on board the Thetis and the Bear. One, [illegible], was buried at Disco in accordance with the desire of the inspector of West Greenland.

[illegible] bodies buried in the ice near the camp were swept away by wind and current before my arrival and could not be recovered.

The names of the dead recovered, with date of death, are as follows: Sergeant Cross, January 1; [illegible] the Esquimau, April 5; Sergeant L[illegible]; Lieutenant Lockwood, April 9; Sergeant [illegible]; Private Ellis, May 19; Sergeant [illegible], May 23; Private Henry, June 6; Private [illegible], June 18.

Names of the dead buried in the ice-foot, with dates of their death, whose bodies were not recovered, are as follows: Sergeant Rice, April 9; Corporal Salor, June 3; Private Bender, June 6; [illegible] Gardiner, June 12.

Drowned by breaking through newly formed ice while sealing, Jens Edwards, Esquimau, April 24.

I would urgently suggest that the bodies now on [board] be placed in metallic cases here for safer and [better] transportation in a sea voyage. This appears to me imperative.

TERRIBLE PRIVATIONS.

Greely abandoned Fort Conger August 9, 1883, and reached Baird inlet September 29 following, with his party all well. He abandoned all his boats and drifted thirty days on an ice floe in Smith sound. His permanent camp was established October 21, 1883, at the point where he was found. During nine months the party had to live upon a small amount of food, brought from Fort Conger, cached at Payer harbor and Cape Isabella by Nares in 1875, but found much damaged by lapse of time; that cached by Beebe at Cape Sabine in 1882, and a small amount saved from the wreck of the Proteus in 1883 and landed by Lieutenant Garlington and Colwell on the beach near where Greely's party was found.

These provisions were consumed the party had to live upon boiled sealskin, stripped from their sealskin clothing and also lichens, and though in good weather when they were [able] to make exertion. As it took 1800 [illegible] of a gallon measure the labor was too [illegible] depend upon them to sustain life on.

[illegible] between Cape Sabine and Littleton island, close on account of violent gales and [illegible] at 240 [illegible] at the latter place [illegible] reached.

GREELY'S RECORDS SAVED.

Greely's records and all of the instruments brought with him from Fort Conger are recovered [illegible].

[illegible] to Smith's sound I had a continuous struggle with ice in impassable [illegible] barriers were overcome by watchful [illegible] No opportunity to advance [illegible] and for several hundred miles the [illegible] to run their way through [illegible] varying in thickness, [illegible] and when rafted much greater. [illegible] and the Bear reached Cape York June [illegible] passage of twenty-one days in Melville [illegible] advance of the Dundee whaling [illegible] continued to Cape Sabine. Returning [illegible] fell in with seven others of the [illegible] island and announced Greely's [illegible] that they might not be delayed from [illegible] grounds nor be tempted in the dangers [illegible] in view of the reward of $25,000 [illegible].

[illegible] Melville bay we fell in with the [illegible] to [illegible] off Devil's Thumb strong [illegible] Commander Coffin did all [illegible] along so far with the transport so [illegible] before the opening had occurred.

SPLENDID WORK.

[illegible] Emory with the Bear has supported [illegible] with great skillfulness and unflinching [illegible] in accomplishing the great duty of re[illegible] Greely party are very much [illegible] the rescue but were critical in the [illegible] found and for several days after [illegible] hours delay in reaching them would [illegible] all now living. The season north [illegible] the closest for years. Smith sound was [illegible] left Cape Sabine. The winter about [illegible] was the most severe for twenty years [illegible] is entirely due to the unwearied [illegible] and the secretary of war in fit[ting out the] expedition for the work it has had the [illegible] accomplish.

Commander.

GREELY, Commanding.

HAZEN TO GREELY.

The following dispatches were sent Lieutenant Greely to-day:

SIGNAL SERVICE OFFICE, July 17.

Lieutenant A. W. Greely, St. Johns: Our hearts are overflowing with gladness and thanks to God for your safety, and in sadness for those who without fault of yours are dead. Your family are well, and in San Diego.

W. B. HAZEN.

Lieutenant Greely, St. Johns: Your dispatches are most satisfactory, and show your expedition to have been in the highest degree successful in every particular. This fact is not affected by the disaster later.

W. B. HAZEN.

CHANDLER CONGRATULATES SCHLEY.

WEST POINT, N. Y., July 17.—The following dispatch was forwarded by Secretary Chandler to Commander W. S. Schley, St. Johns, Newfoundland:

Receive my congratulations and thanks for yourself and your whole command for your prudence, perseverance and courage in reaching our dead and dying countrymen. The hearts of the American people go out with great affection to Lieutenant Greely and the few survivors in his deadly peril. Care for them unremittingly and bid them be cheerful and hopeful on account of what life has in store for them. Preserve tenderly the remains of the heroic dead and prepare them according to your judgment and bring them home.

W. E. CHANDLER,
Secretary of the Navy.

SECRETARY CHANDLER INTERVIEWED.

[illegible], July 17.—Secretary Chandler was found at West Point this morning reading dispatches from the acting secretary at Washington relative to Greely's rescue, and said: "I have in accordance with the suggestions made by Commander Schley in his dispatch issued instructions to have the remains of the dead preserved, and the whole party will come home soon."

When asked if there would be any more Arctic researches Mr. Chandler said: "No. I don't desire at this time to enter into that matter."

Dispatches were pouring in to the secretary all afternoon congratulating him upon the success of the expedition, and in company with a few friends he was busy perusing them.

AT GREELY'S HOME.

NEWBURYPORT, July 17.—The news of the finding of the Greely party was received at the home of the famous commander with profound joy. His career from a child to the present time has been watched with interest, and the great fame which he has gained is personally felt by all. Here he resided with his brother and mother, and when the glad news was conveyed to them they were almost overcome. Mrs. Greely, while joyful at her son's safety, was deeply affected at the loss of so many of his party.

ADDITIONAL PARTICULARS.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., July 17.—On arrival at anchorage of the relief squadron to-day an associated press correspondent interviewed Lieutenant Greely and other survivors of the Arctic colony. The following facts were disclosed: After passing two winters at Fort Conger in scientific research Lieutenant Greely with his whole party intact broke up the [illegible] encampment and commenced their southward descent. This was accomplished amid great perils from gales of wind, ice nips and other casualties. Cape Sabine having been reached a temporary home was erected, built of stone and covered by canvas as it brought along by the party. On the [illegible] of September winter quarters were established at Cape Sabine. The commissariat had become very meagre and the cache of provisions left by the Proteus last year but poorly supplemented it. The steam launch had become fast in the ice a few weeks previous and had been abandoned.

In [illegible] havoc in the ranks was early in January when three of the men dropped off with scurvy. On the 9th of April Lieutenant Lockwood and Mr. Rice, the photographer, succumbed after an heroic attempt to secure for their starving comrades about 150 pounds of meat supposed to be cached at a place named Bad creek, a distance of about fifteen miles from the encampment. Israel, the astronomer, perished May 27. Lieutenant Kislingbury died June 1 and Dr. Pavy, the naturalist, slept into death June 6. Not one of the victims realized that death was near. They all died a tranquil, painless death.

REMARKABLE RESCUE.

"Two [illegible] also perished [illegible] starvation [illegible] the [illegible] was drowned [illegible] kayak being pierced by a [illegible] formed ice April 17, thus [illegible] all hope of getting any supplies of seal meat for the starving explorers. The Esquimaux were most faithful and devoted followers and [illegible] of Lieutenant Greely.

Ellison was rescued and safely brought on board the steamer [illegible] Bear, where he died a few days subsequently. This was an extraordinary instance of human endurance, while away some ten miles from his hut last winter, the temperature suddenly fell to 45 degrees below zero. His hands and feet were frozen to the very bone as he was dragged by his comrades in an almost sinking condition to the hut. His feet and hands were literally amputated by frost, and in this terrible state he lived through the [illegible] dismal months that ensued until he was rescued.

The bodies of twelve of the victims have been brought by the steamer Bear and Thetis embalmed in tanks filled with alcohol. The survivors are all doing well and are rapidly gaining flesh and strength. Lieutenant Greely, who was in an exceedingly critical condition when transferred to the Thetis, is now able to move about. This morning he drove out for an hour's ride to get the country air and came back quite resuscitated.

AN ARCTIC EXPLORER INTERVIEWED.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—George Kennan of this city, the well known Arctic traveler and author, who has taken an active interest in the recent attempts to rescue Lieutenant Greely's party and who went before the Arctic relief board last spring to urge the offer of such reward as would secure the co-operation of whalers in the search, was asked by an associated press reporter to-night what he thought of the news received from St. Johns. He replied:

It is a story of remarkable and heroic achievement and ill clouded by disaster due to incompetence in Washington. If Lieut. Greely and his party had all returned in safety to the United States, as they might have done, had they been properly supported, their Arctic record [illegible] of skillful management and success would have been unparalleled. No other Arctic expedition has spent two consecutive winters and a part of a third in such high latitudes and achieved its results without casualty or a single case of serious sickness. If Lieutenant Greely had found at the mouth of Smith Sound the shelter and food which he had a right to expect there he would probably have brought his entire party back to the United States in perfect health after three winters in the highest northern latitudes that have ever been reached, and after a series of sledging campaigns which for boldness and skillful execution have rarely if ever been surpassed.

THE DISASTER INEXCUSABLE.

[illegible] disaster [illegible] partly due [illegible] knowledge [illegible] the [illegible] were [illegible]

[illegible] of which [illegible] partial [illegible] which would have saved the lives of the [illegible] Beebe in 1883 [illegible] of [illegible] and [illegible] Garlington the [illegible] same [illegible] with [illegible] days later the [illegible] was only [illegible] of these three ships [illegible] enough [illegible] winter camp to have [illegible] party [illegible] every [illegible] and they did not [illegible].

GREELY'S ACHIEVEMENTS AND CAPABILITY.

[illegible] Greely's achievements [illegible] those which it was [illegible] he would make?

[illegible] as I anticipated. If [illegible] at the signal office [illegible] until [illegible] New York Herald [illegible] of [illegible] Smith sound [illegible] by Lieutenant [illegible] in July or August and [illegible] to the [illegible] of Smith's sound to locate [illegible] and [illegible] later [illegible] to [illegible] that he [illegible] than has [illegible] to save [illegible] he [illegible] Greely [illegible] he has [illegible] a special record of the dead [illegible] of April.

THE BRANCH OF THE DISCOVERIES.

How important are the discoveries made by Lieutenant Greely?

From the point of view of an Arctic [geo]grapher they are of first class importance. [illegible] has taken away from Commander Markham [illegible] the highest latitude [illegible] the world [illegible] he has greatly extended the limits of exploration [illegible] Grinnell land. The fact that two of Greely's sledge parties [illegible] open water in the polar [illegible] that [illegible] were a [illegible] drifting [illegible] is [illegible] to show that the [illegible] is not [illegible] immovable [illegible] Nares [illegible] and [illegible] explorations extended over [illegible] latitude and nearly fifty degrees of longitude. He has virtually explored the [illegible] of Grinnell land and crossed it [illegible] and [illegible] the northern coast of [illegible] Lieutenant [illegible] and his party [illegible] achievements of the Lady Franklin bay [illegible] party during the two years at Lady Franklin bay.

Double Tragedy.

HEPPNER, July 15.—[Special correspondence.]—Word has just reached Heppner that at Canyon City last Saturday a man named Noon shot his wife and then himself. At last accounts the wife was still alive with slim chances of recovery. Domestic trouble is said to have been caused by a printer named [illegible] Fadden, led to the shooting. A lynching party started to call on McFadden but he had fled.

GENERAL NEWS.

TROUBLE IN THE YELLOWSTONE PARK

Proceedings of the National Teachers' Association Assembled at Madison—News Items from Various Eastern Points.

The Question of Sunday Concerts.

NEW YORK, July 17.—[Special.]—The Herald says: The number and energy of protests made yesterday from all classes of people against the attempt of the Sabbath committee to stop the Sunday concerts in Central park evidently surprised the committee. A member of the committee could not say what action the committee would take against the decision of the park commission in favor of the concerts. He added: "The German papers I see are taking this as the first steps in breaking down the obvious American Sunday observance, and we will soon be having the Sunday scenes of the Prater at Vienna and the Champs Elysees in Paris enacted in Central Park, which will then be nothing but a second Coney Island under municipal patronage. Mark my words, if the Anglo-American idea of Sunday keeping and the Sabbath is gone, away with there is lost the greatest safeguard against the encroachments of capitalists and monopolists upon the rights of the people. Manufacturing mills and railroads will run on Sundays and the working people will be compelled to labor that day as on the other six days of the week."

Precautions Against Cholera.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—[Special.]—The surgeon general of the marine hospital says collectors of customs all along the coast have been notified that persons from cholera infected districts reported arriving by other than French vessels must give evidence that none of the passengers' baggage has been shipped from infected districts since June 10. Instructions have also been furnished to customs collectors to cause disinfection of packages and other freight carried from infected districts. The officer in charge of the national board of health says that while he does not think the danger of an epidemic this year is very great he expects we shall have cholera in this country this year or next. It does not usually reach us, he says, very much before the second year of its appearance in Europe, but it is possible that it may come sooner now.

A Church Dispute.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 17.—[Special.]—A few days ago George Standish and Maggie Hearn were married. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Charles Coleman, pastor of the Baptist church. Miss Hearn was a Roman Catholic and her marriage by a Protestant clergyman has created an excitement among church officials who look upon the affair as a defiance against the church and excommunication is sure to follow. It appears that Standish in deference to his bride's religious preferences applied to the priest to marry them and was informed that it was necessary in such cases to get a dispensation from the bishop at Hartford, which would take a day or two. He was willing to wait but Miss Hearn wasn't, and so they were married by a Protestant clergyman.

The Law Violated by Employes of the Improvement Company—Charges of Fraud.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—[Special.]—On the 7th instant the secretary of the interior sent to congress certain correspondence in relation to the management of the Yellowstone national park. This correspondence was called for by the senate on May 8 and as the documents only covers twenty-eight pages it shows it as must have been necessarily [illegible] by the [illegible] of the management of the park by the superintendent P. H. Conger, that of the grant [illegible] and the secretary of the interior of special privileges, and on its [illegible] hotels, opera and [illegible] there have been made to senators and representatives during the last session of congress. He admitted having committed the crime in the following words: "I went to see her to-night to try to [illegible] to bygones and come back and live with me. She went [illegible] and would have nothing to do with me. I saw it wasn't any use to try to get her back, [illegible] and I made up my mind that she [illegible] she turned her way away from me. I [illegible] and quick as a flash I grabbed her, without making any noise. I threw her to the floor and while I held her down with my knee on her breast I took my long white silk handkerchief from my pocket and put it around her neck before she could scream or make any noise. I tied the rag at her windpipe just as tight and as hard as I could and then I got off her. She tried to use her [illegible] [illegible] but I held them so she couldn't; pretty soon she got weak and her long [illegible] gradually [illegible] out of her mouth. I saw her eyes start from their sockets and I used all my [illegible] clutching at her throat, and at the last she [illegible] she couldn't save herself, and pretty soon her hands stopped their clutching and she lay still."

THE CAMPAIGN.

Henry Watterson Tells how the Tariff Plank was Adopted.

BUTLER STILL THE MOST IMPORTANT FACTOR

Elkins Assumes Command of the Campaign for Blaine and Logan—Proceedings of the Kansas Republican Convention.

The Ratification Meeting at Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, July 17.—Democrats of Louisville to the number of 5000 assembled in Court place this evening for the purpose of ratifying the Chicago nominations. The speakers were gentlemen well known politically and their remarks were enthusiastically received. Hon. Henry Watterson, speaking of the tariff plank, said the national committee [illegible] in 1880 by running away from the issue of revenue reform is not as it was then in the hands of protectionists. The hand of Randall was put forth to pack the platform committee in the last convention and through its agency [illegible] the [illegible] of five southern states were misrepresented on that committee. Hence the disproportion which appeared in congress between the followers of Mr. Randall and the followers of Mr. Carlisle and Mr. Morrison was not maintained [in] committee. The committee was in point of [illegible] equally divided, but it is fair to say it [illegible] the after the two extremes had stripped the question of its surplusage and laid down without disguise the full measure of their desire and extent of their demand, it appeared that we were not so far apart as we had imagined; we were [illegible] and there came about a better feeling, and along with it a prospect of an agreement.

ALL AGREED BUT BUTLER.

The result was that the sub-committee which made the platform, excepting General Butler, arrived at a final decision which carried not merely the judgment but the hearty approval of each of the parties to it. When the fight came in the general committee some feeling arose and a sharp contest was had upon the two propositions, the first being to strike out the word "[illegible]" from the declaratory clause and the second relating to the selection of a permanent chairman to report the platform to the convention. It was contended by Mr. Malcolm [illegible] and other protectionists who supported him that the word "exclusively" was synonymous with the word "only." Nobody disputed that [illegible] reformer decided that [illegible] is upon us and we are not going to run away. We are going to stand and fight intelligently and unanimously and when the battle is over we [illegible] we are going to [illegible] war taxes at least $100,000,000 and revise the tariff and reduce it to a peace basis on just and just application of the principles laid down in [illegible] by the latter [illegible] adopted by the [illegible] question, which put Cleveland and Hendricks in the field.

THE TICKET.

Continuing, he said of the platform: "I am equally confident of the ticket. Cleveland has allied himself with all that is clean and sober, upright and [illegible]. [illegible] He is a [illegible] an [illegible] man [illegible] legislative [illegible] a constructive actor [illegible] in his life stepped [illegible] and [illegible] down [illegible] of the American congress to throw his [illegible] in the face of everybody. He is a [illegible] citizen who has [illegible] his duty always without any fuss or fustian and who has the strength and nerve to handle the [illegible] [illegible] which is [illegible] the [illegible] He has [illegible] of Hendricks [illegible] that [illegible] My belief is that the ticket [illegible] elected and for my part I enter the canvass without a single reserve or regret."

Political Points.

THE DEMOCRATIC CHAIRMANSHIP.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—[Special.]—Considerable interest is taken in the election of chairman of the national democratic committee. The opposition to the re-election of Barnum was partially made manifest in the Chicago convention when Wade Hampton of South Carolina offered a resolution that the committee be not restricted in the selection of chairman to its own members [illegible] that it should have power to choose a chairman from the outside. This resolution was referred to the committee on resolutions and never heard of afterward.

The Star to-night says: "The impression seems to be that ex-Senator Wallace will be elected chairman of the national democratic committee. On every hand [illegible] of the [illegible] of Barnum is expressed. He is not popular with the party and there is great dissatisfaction with his past management. In 1880 it was well understood that [illegible] [illegible] was persuaded to precipitate the Tilden men by asking them to elect a man or [illegible] place. Barnum [illegible] and it was openly charged that he arranged with the Tilden men to put him in it [illegible] it was represented that [illegible] Tilden would feel complimented at having his man elected again. [illegible] the Wallace and the Randall factions of the democracy in Pennsylvania have an [illegible] at every convention but the hatchet has been buried and the [illegible] feeling now exists. It was hinted that Wallace prompted by old rivals and animosities would knife Randall at Chicago, but he proved to be a most determined champion of the ex-speaker. Randall's friends now say that he would be so ungrateful as to permit the use of his name for a position that Wallace wants and that the latter has the ex-speaker's assurance of his most cordial support."

THINKS BUTLER WILL FALL IN LINE.

NEW YORK, July 17.—[Special.]—Ex-Collector Simmons of Boston, popularly named "General Butler's manager," was seen yesterday and said: "I am not authorized to speak for General Butler in regard to his support of Cleveland. I know he has always been loyal to the decrees of conventions. It is my belief he will take his place on the side of the democratic nominees. If Butler is for Cleveland we can make Massachusetts a doubtful state, but if not for him the state will be republican. As to the independents who are the blue bloods of Boston they would [illegible] their party they stayed with it. I believe Tammany will support Cleveland. [illegible] is too astute not to get into a boat when it is sailing with the wind."

A SENSATIONAL STORY ABOUT BUTLER.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—[Special.]—The Star to-night says: There is a story whispered about to-day, but not thoroughly vouched for, to the effect that Butler's [illegible] is to [illegible] Arthur as regards the position of Tammany, giving him points which will assist in effecting the coalition with Kelly. As the rather improbable story goes, Butler's interview with him yesterday was for the purpose of bringing about a meeting between the president and a confidential agent and Kelly during his contemplated visit to the Catskills. Then the president, instead of confining the scope of his vision to the beautiful mountain scenery will look into politics a little. Butler is reported by this story to present the case in about this wise: Cleveland is not to be elected, and in New York is the place to [illegible] him. How is it to be done? Thus: I'll draw the greenback and the anti-monopoly vote; you fix [illegible] Kelly. This it is said on the same authority will be the plan adopted. Butler will run as an anti-monopoly candidate and operate chiefly in New York drawing as much as possible from the democrats.

ELKINS ASSUMES COMMAND.

NEW YORK, July 17.—[Special.]—The Post says: Steve Elkins returned to republican headquarters in this city yesterday and at once took hold of the Blaine canvass as general leader. He mapped out the plan of the campaign in a clear and forcible manner. He thinks energy should be applied at once to New York, Indiana and Virginia as doubtful states. He favors giving every encouragement to the recent [illegible] made at Cleveland to this state [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] but in Indiana he thinks it is largely a question of [illegible] He has hopes of Virginia by having [illegible] the straight out republicans and the readjusters.

Kansas Republican Convention.

TOPEKA, July 17.—The republican state convention assembled again this morning.

The chairman of the committee on resolutions presented a report with the remark that it was the unanimous action of the committee and was arrived at through harmony. The resolutions ratify the nomination of Blaine and Logan and pledge them the largest majority ever given national standard bearers; enthusiastically endorse the republican platform as the best statement of living principles ever presented to the American people; its firm adherence to protection of American industry; its demanding the [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] rights of men and the [illegible] monopoly and corporate monopoly is cordially approved. The resolutions declare that prohibition has by a vote of the people [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] that the [illegible] of prohibition [illegible] realize [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] enforced [illegible] the law [illegible] [illegible] They demand that the present railroad laws be so strengthened [illegible] amended as to secure all equal rights [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] railroad commissioners all necessary power to accomplish their oversight to be obtained and to compel compliance with the orders of the board.

THE REPORT ADOPTED WITHOUT CHANGE.

The report of the platform committee having been read, Colonel Anthony offered amendment by inserting this resolution: "That we favor a national convention." This led to a lengthy debate in which the whole subject of prohibition was discussed. Finally a vote on the amendment was taken and it was defeated—yeas 65, nays 296.

The platform was then adopted without change. Albert H. Horton was then nominated for chief justice by acclamation and W. A. Johnston for associate justice.

Colonel John A. Martin, editor of the Atchison Champion and late secretary of the republican national committee, was then nominated for governor by a rising vote amid the cheers, for which Colonel Martin returned thanks in a most graceful manner.

The ticket was then completed as follows: For lieutenant governor, A. P. Riddle; secretary of state, E. B. Allen; auditor, Edwin P. McCabe; treasurer, S. T. Howe; attorney general, S. B. Bradford; superintendent of public instruction, J. B. Lawhead.

The state central committee was then chosen and the convention adjourned.

FOREIGN DISPATCHES.

ENGLAND.

LABOUCHERE PRAISES MOODY.

LONDON, July 17.—[Special.]—The celebrity chosen by Labouchere for dissection in the current number of Truth is Moody, the American evangelist. Moody's career is sketched. He is one of the most famous and effective pulpit orators in the world. The writer finds that he has displayed a prodigious amount of shrewdness and a degree of common sense almost amounting to genius. The article concludes with a declaration that "if you were to combine the entire bench of bishops with the whole western conference and then throw in the Baptist and Congregational unions as a make-weight the entire body of theologians and pulpiteers would be found to possess between them less practical wisdom than that plain unlettered preacher."

BRITISH POLITICS.

LONDON, July 17.—The trades union committee are making arrangements to have a procession of 200,000 persons at the demonstration in Hyde park Monday next to awe the house of lords into passing the franchise bill. A majority of the workshops in London will be closed on that day.

The enthusiasm over the movement for the abolition of the house of lords is at high pressure.

In consequence of Lord Randolph Churchill supporting the plan for a compromise on the franchise bill the ultras are moving to have him displaced from the chairmanship.

The house of lords this evening adopted unanimously the earl of Cadogan's motion that the house present an address to the queen asking her to summon an autumn session of parliament to consider the franchise question in conjunction with the question of redistribution of the parliamentary seats.

Albany exchange: The fruit crop in the Willamette valley this year will be unusually good, and instead of allowing it to go to waste as has been the custom too often in the past it should all be saved. There can be no excuse now for fruit to be fed to hogs when there are so many ways that it can be disposed of with profit.

Eva Milloy, 4 year old child of John Milloy, while playing in Dr. Watts' dooryard at Brownsville, fell through the rotten covering of the well, and but for the presence of mind of another little girl would surely have been drowned. She ran to Mrs. Watts, who raised the alarm, and Mr. S[illegible], who happened to be in easy calling distance, ran to the well, grabbed the pump and [illegible] expecting to find his child at the bottom dead. But when he reached the water she was lying on her back floating in the only position that would keep her on the surface. Others had followed with ropes and soon father and child were drawn to the surface wet and badly chilled, but nothing the worse for the ducking.

From a prominent citizen of Eagle Point the Jacksonville Sentinel learns that there came near being a serious shooting scrape in that vicinity last Tuesday evening, in which a woman was the prominent actor. From his account of the occurrence it seems that an old gentleman who resides near Eagle Point had business in Lake county, and left the premises in charge of his daughter and a hired man. The conduct of the hired man was not satisfactory to the lady and she paid him off and discharged him. He returned the next day and was ordered to leave the premises, which he refused to do, when the lady drew a pistol and fired at him, the ball passing through the rim of his hat and the powder burning his face badly.

The plucky little fellow stayed with the load till boy, wood and team were piled in a heap. The attending physician says that the boy is much injured, being badly scalped and fearfully cut and bruised about the head.

Unfortunately she did not succeed in hitting them, but only frightened them away.

An accident occurred at the Tacoma mill on Saturday afternoon which was decidedly unpleasant for the person interested, to say the least. The man who attends to the furnace in which slabs and sawdust are consumed was standing on the tramway near the chute engaged in his work, when he suddenly slipped and fell headlong into the fire within. Fortunately for him about one ton of sawdust had a few minutes before gone into the furnace, thus smothering to a great extent the fire, which fact alone saved him from a terrible death. In the lower part of the furnace there are several doors and one of them being open the man lost no time in jumping out. The only damage he sustained was badly scorched clothes and a few slight bruises. It was a remarkable escape.

Montana.

Helena is discussing a proposition to light her streets by electricity.

The Montana Lumber Company of Livingston has been attached at the suit of Crocker & Shotwell of Fargo for $10,000. The yard at Billings was attached Tuesday morning in the same suit, but the mill at Big Timber and the company's books, accounts and securities still remain free.

The Merchants National bank of Helena is in receipt of nine silver bars from the Drum Lummon mine amounting to about $21,000, the result of a ten days run of the ten stamp mill at Marysville. It is only eight days since we noticed the receipt at the Merchants National of $12,000 in silver bullion from the same source. This output has become regular, and is on the increase every week. The wet crushing stamp mill, whose capacity is 200 per cent over the present mill in use at the Drum Lummon, will start up again probably this week, when it may be expected the product in silver will be in like proportion.

On Big Spring creek, in Meagher county, a few days ago, Rattlesnake Jake and his partner, O'Fallon, two desperadoes and reputed horse thieves, attempted to run a small place called Lewiston, and meeting with some opposition they declared they would clean out the town, and commenced shooting at everybody in sight. There was only three guns in the town and they were placed in the hands of men of undoubted courage who used them with such good effect that both of the supposed horse-thieves were run down in a short time, O'Fallon being shot first, through and through with a Winchester rifle, and Rattlesnake served in a like manner a short time afterward. Both men showed great pluck. O'Fallon, after being shot through, rode back to his partner and asked him if he was hurt. Jake said that he was. "Well," said O'Fallon, "I am shot [and] I am a dead man, but I will stay with you." At that moment he fell from his horse, then raised himself upon his knees, took deliberate aim with a Winchester at a young man named Smith, an outsider who was trying to get away from the fracas, and shot him through the head, killing him instantly. The citizens saw there would be more men killed if the thing was not ended quickly, and shooting from pistols of all sizes commenced in earnest. O'Fallon took five shots in the body before he fell the second time, and then he raised himself on his side and continued shooting until he had not strength enough to support himself, and after lying down he kept shooting as long as there was life in him. Rattlesnake Jake, after he was shot through the body, kept shooting, then his right arm was broken by a ball and he changed to his left hand and kept shooting; another ball broke his right leg, and supporting himself by the other, kept shooting, another ball struck his chin, carrying away half of his jaw, when he fell on the ground, raised himself on his side and kept shooting. From weakness he could not support himself any longer, and he fired lying flat on the ground. There were nine balls in him before he gave up. Just before he drew his last breath he made an effort to draw his pistol again, but had not strength enough, and it fell by his side. Everybody in that section thinks there was a good day's work done in ridding the country of these two desperate characters, and only regret that an innocent man has been killed. Smith had only arrived in town the night previous, and was from East Gallatin.

OUT OF DEATH'S CLUTCHES

It may almost be said that Commander Schley of the Greely relief expedition is the first of all the many northern explorers or searchers who has ever fully accomplished the object of the voyage. He went for Greely and his men and he has found them, some alive and some dead. He has not only found them but is on his way home with them, all except five who floated away in their icy graves and one who was drowned. There are none left to doubtful fate; all are accounted for, and the work has been done in a very short time. The ship seemed to sail straight for the dying survivors to reach them on the last day they had to live. The statements we have are of the barest facts, mostly official reports, and even these read like the story of a terrible adventure. The timely arrival was like one of Jules Verne's imaginative creations, and no one can read of it without experiencing a great sense of gladness, as when one hears of the safety of a member of one's own family known to be in peril. In this phase of humanity we are all kin. Probably no piece of news published since the first issue of the first morning paper ever caused such universal joy as this will. It is so complete a story of rescue that it exceeds the first accounts we had of the finding of the De Long survivors, and all the news we have ever had of the other lost expeditions has been both bad news and news open to some doubts. When Berry's ship was burned off Wrangel island, he had not been absent long enough to cause any anxiety; therefore the news of his mishap and fortunate safety of life did not stir the world as this will. Other countries were beginning to think about the fate of Greely as all the civilized world got to thinking about Sir John Franklin, concerning the fate of whom nothing satisfactory has ever been known.

Those who died of the Greeley expedition nearly all died of exhaustion and lack of food, though there was no time, it seems, when there was not something to eat which would barely sustain life. To think of these men gathering shrimps and boiling their clothes to live on is to pity a condition that few know anything about, though most of the polar explorers have had a taste of it.

General Hazen seems to think that Greeley accomplished the object of his expedition, and we sincerely hope he did. So many exploring parties have been fighting their way up the coast of Greenland without accomplishing anything sufficient to compensate for the suffering and loss of life that it is something to be told by General Hazen that this expedition, of which but seven men out of twenty five return alive, is a success. As to just what has been accomplished we shall know much more in a few days. Lockwood and Brainerd went to a point a degree or thereabouts farther north than man has before been known to go, and that in itself is something. The United States leads the world in the matter of exploration, and away on the northernmost known land we have a country called Arthur, for our president, while the names of cabinet officers, senators and explorers are scattered among the icebergs most liberally. Future explorers will sail past the Danish names, on through the English names and into a region where our countrymen are the sole nomenclators.

The survivors are left to give the details and enjoy some more of life; the dead are brought for burial, while the features of that one degree will go upon the next map of the world to remain for all time.

PRIVATE AND PUBLIC VIRTUE

The Standard fails to understand both the purport and the purpose of our remarks on the "private character of candidates." Mr. Blaine's private character has never, so far as we know, been attacked by the press or made the subject of any public criticism. So it was not to shield him that the article was written. His private character requires no defense, having never been assailed. When a man is known to have committed a crime, whether it be theft or bigamy, the fact is a very proper and should be a very weighty consideration in a canvass where he is a candidate for office. The article was intended to expose the absurdity of the view entertained by many people, that none but good men—good in the sense that they are free from all those personal vices which should debar them from the society of pure men and women—should occupy public office. This view is absurd because it cannot be and never is consistently maintained. And it is demoralizing because when such men are successful candidates, as they frequently are after this point has been raised, their triumph at the polls is construed to be a vindication from the charges, and the natural comment is that "that shows how much the public cares for temperance, etc." A man in his public capacity is often much better than in his private life. John Morrissey, for example, a prize fighter and a gambler, made a very good though not a very efficient legislator both at Albany and at Washington. Though a vile man he was not a corrupt legislator, and he tried especially at Albany to secure beneficial legislation for his miserable constituents in New York city. After his election he said to some members of the board of education, "I don't know much about education, but I know that it is a good thing and that my constituents need it. If you will tell me what you who have charge of the public schools want done I will do it." And he kept his promise and voted for everything the managers of the schools desired. Now let us not be misunderstood to mean that we should have favored John Morrissey's election to public office. We make this reference only as another illustration of the fact which was dwelt upon in the former article. We firmly believe that public men should be held strictly accountable for the performance of their public duties, and that they should never be enabled to betray the interests committed to them by means of the confidence which may be reposed in them because of their devotion, whether sincere or hypocritical, to morals and religion.

Mr. George Kennan, who is interviewed on the Arctic rescue for the benefit of the associated press, is a young man who knows what he is talking about. He has wintered in northern Siberia and is a close student in the line of exploration. He is a frequent lecturer before geographical societies and is now engaged upon a book of travels and experiences. His regular occupation is that of night manager of the Washington office of the associated press.

Both the Chicago national conventions met on a Tuesday, were in session precisely the same length of time and made their nominations and adjourned sine die on Friday. Both conventions made their nominations on Friday. If this should prove fatal to both tickets, Butler, who was nominated by the anti monopolists on a Wednesday, will be the lucky man. Hayes was nominated on a Friday in 1876 and he was elected.

There is a brief lull in political excitement while the country waits for letters of acceptance. Mr. Blaine has been holding back for news of the democratic nomination, and now Cleveland will keep quiet until he gets a chance at Blaine's letter. The democrats keep a respectful distance in the rear always. They are late in nominating and never elect.

We print this morning Butler's most significant speech at Chicago. Butler further worried the democrats yesterday by calling upon President Arthur. He was probably carrying out a determination to be the first one of the candidates to reach the White house.

One of the gratifying results of the democratic convention was the black eye given to General Butler. He has lost his grip in Massachusetts and is now a political orphan.

THE REPUBLIC IS PEACE.

The growing discontent of the Germans under the burdens of their military service is a very healthful and hopeful sign. The requirements of the service have long been onerous, but since the union of the German states they have become inexorable. Every young workingman, farmer or mechanic, upon reaching the age of seventeen, is subjected to such surveillance that he cannot emigrate from the country, and at eighteen he must hold himself in readiness for three years' involuntary service in the army. The people have hitherto been far too tolerant of the hardships which military service imposes on them. It has been impossible to form a political party in opposition to Bismarck which would not fall to pieces at a hint from the war office that France had organized a new corps or built another fort. But now the people are resorting to the first available means of escape from these burdens. Nearly 1[illegible] German subjects were sentenced last year for attempting to avoid military service by emigration, and more than 100,000 refused to report for duty. This popular revolt against the doctrine so long upheld by Germany's rulers, that the first duty of the subject is to bear arms, and at the bidding of the king shoot, stab and blow in pieces his fellow man with unquestioning alacrity, must sooner or later force a change of policy upon the imperial government and bring about a general disarmament, together with the general acceptance of the great truth that in a really well governed country standing armies are unnecessary.

It is an absurd supposition that the large and steadily increasing standing armies of Europe are necessary to preserve the peace. Nations are subject to the same influences as the individuals that compose them. It is always the armed man who is the dangerous and aggressive man, and in all communities in which arms are carried the law is constantly violated, if, indeed, violence does not become superior to law. And in all such communities the man who is known not to carry arms is the safest from insult and danger. In the most dangerous localities in this country the fact that a man is known not to carry concealed weapons is the surest protection he can have. A gentleman who was in the mercantile business many years in one of the most lawless counties in Arkansas before the war has told us that he had no doubt that his life had been saved many times simply because every man in the county knew that he never carried a knife or pistol. He has seen five men killed in his store, and he has seen several men shot for no other reason than that, being known to carry a pistol, they put their hands in their pockets to get a chew of tobacco while standing in an excited group of men. In such communities, where one is supposed or known to have a pistol in his pocket, when a quarrel begins, the moment one reaches his hand towards his pocket someone seeing the movement draws his own pistol and shoots the man making the significant motion.

And so the large standing armies of Europe make the public mind of rival nations sensitive and apprehensive. Every movement becomes significant. These armies are not created for the preservation of the peace; they are preparations for war; they mean war and nothing else. If these armies were disbanded there would be less danger of breaches of peace. "The empire is peace" was a remark of the third Napoleon. He meant that France under the imperial rule was so powerful that no nation would venture to engage with her in war, and so sufficient unto herself that she had no need to make aggressions upon other nations. This remark was not strictly true in respect of France as an empire, and it is not true of France to-day that the republic is peace, because in both instances she had within herself that which is incompatible with a profound and lasting peace. But she might have had that peace and might have it to-day if she disbanded her army. A period of peace is especially needed by France as well as by Germany. The standing army has been a chief factor of all her financial troubles. When not engaged in war she has been, as she is now, preparing for it. It is her standing army which so impoverishes the people to support, and the standing armies of other countries that menace the peace of Europe. There could be no greater blessing to Germany and France and to civilization than the appropriation on the part of both nations of Napoleon's remark, "The empire is peace and the republic is peace," and the verification of the truth by following the example set by the United States at the close of the late civil war.

There is nothing to which an American can refer with more gratification, when comparing this nation with those of the old world, than the fact that the United States have so small a standing army and are paying their debts. Napoleon's remark as applied to our country is strictly true: "The republic is peace." It is self sufficing and powerful. Its natural and proper attitude therefore is its accustomed attitude of dignified self reliance, the composure which results from consciousness of power. The United States have nothing to fear and consequently no need to put on bumptious airs. Much less has she any occasion for increasing her army or strengthening her fortifications, and the more she grows in population and power the less need has she of these factitious means of defense. There is no sense in applying to us the old proverb "in time of peace prepare for war," unless we desire war. No one desires war unless it be the cold blooded financial or political speculator, such as profit by all wars, while the soldiers who have warmth enough to fight and the people who are not too lazy to work bear its burdens. The old scripture has hitherto been fulfilled in our experience as a nation, and if the people do not yield to the clamor of the ignorant which is inspired by demagogues who flatter only to betray, it always will be: "In quietness and confidence shall be your strength."

STATE SWAMP LANDS.

One Man Claims Two Thousand Three Hundred and Forty-three and Three-fourths Square Miles.

PORTLAND, Or., July 15, 1884.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Why is it that none of the state officers' official reports ever contain any definite information regarding the disposal of the swamp lands given to the state by the general government? It would be quite interesting to know at least under what law or laws the state officers are acting, or whether they are acting without law. In a nutshell the question is: did the act of 1878 repeal the old obnoxious swamp land act of 1870, or did it not? That certainly was the intention at the time, and it seems as clearly as language can make it that section 14 of the act of 1878 (Sess. Laws of 1878, page 41) repeals the swamp land act of 1870, and that this was the intention is further apparent by section 10 of the act of 1878, which provides that in cases where persons had fully complied with the original swamp land act of 1870 they might complete the purchase of their swamp lands at any time prior to January 1, 1880, by paying to the state therefor $2 50 per acre. No state officer's report has ever shown at what price the state's swamp lands were being sold. The difference is that if the lands were being sold and conveyed away by reason of having been applied for under the old act of 1870, then they were to be sold for $[illegible] per acre and could only be sold prior to January 1, 1880; but if sold under the act of 1878, then they could by section [illegible] of that act only be sold in quantities of not more than 320 acres to any one person, and then at $1 per acre purchase price.

In the circuit court of this county there will soon be called for trial a case arising out of a contract for commissions for the sale of 2,343¾ square miles of Oregon swamp lands. And this it is said is only about one third of what is claimed of the Oregon swamp lands by one individual. It amounts to a little less than fifty miles square and is something more than the best county in the Willamette valley.

Section 14 of the act of 1878 provided that all the acts of the state land commissioners, acts and decisions as to the legal title, shall be final as to the right to a deed from the state. But this certainly was not intended to vest in them the power to convey away the rights of this state contrary to law, but meant only that the determination of the board should be final as to the title to lands conveyed to persons entitled to them by law and in quantities conformable to law.

By the act of 1878 no one person after January 1, 1880, was entitled to have or could receive title to more than 320 acres. So direct and positive is the act of 1878 that by section [illegible] of the act every applicant is required to make affidavit that he has not directly or indirectly made any previous purchase of lands from the state, or any for him, which together with the lands described in the application exceed * * 320 acres. CITIZEN.

BUTLER'S SPEECH.

His Remarks in the Democratic Convention in Favor of his Platform.

Butler's minority report from the platform committee and his speech in support of it was the great sensation in the convention. Following is the speech in full:

Gentlemen of the Convention—I appear before you with great diffidence, having to differ with the very able committee of which I was an associate. Many and most things in the platform I agree to. You have heard various propositions read which I have submitted and which were not agreed to. I shall speak upon none at this time [illegible] where there are the great [illegible] lines of twelve planks [illegible] all comprised in a single sentence. Everything else was agreed to. We both agreed that there is no constitutional power in the government to raise a single dollar of tax beyond the necessary expenses of an honest and economical administration. We all agreed that it is to be raised by taxation from customs [illegible] after the manner of our fathers. We agreed that material used in the arts and the necessaries of life not produced in this country must be [illegible]. Where we differed was in this: I claim that in raising that revenue it was the duty of the government so to adjust its laws as to best promote American enterprise and foster and cherish American labor. [Applause.] Think for a moment. The democratic party refuses to say, when they must raise tax, to raise them in such manner as best to sustain their own laboring men. [Applause.] Will that do? [Cries of "No, no."] Are you ready to go into contest with our opponents with such a platform? I come here as no [illegible], no beggar. I come here presenting more than 1,600,000 laboring men. [Cheers.] I have brought their condition before this convention. I demand not that you should give them anything, but when you are taking from the people that you take it only where it will hurt them least. Is that an unreasonable demand? Do you think you can get along without them? I do not, and therefore I brought them here as your allies if you will receive them, and they will see me go away sorrowing if you will not receive them. I object to the tariff plank of your platform adopted by your committee.

The tariff plank of this platform should be so that he who runs may read. [Loud applause.] Read that tariff plank and then see if you can find out exactly what it does mean. [Loud laughter and applause.] It does not mean protection. And yet it is twisted so that it is supposed that it might mean protection. Democrats, in the convention of 18[illegible] you passed a tariff plank, a tariff for revenue only (applause)—only for revenue—and you had a steamer on it [illegible]. In 1880 you had a tariff for revenue only, and it broke the back of the most gallant soldier in the country. [Applause.] And we lost. And now you have got a tariff for public purposes exclusively. What is the difference? Exclusively means "only," and only means "exclusively." [Laughter and applause.] Think it over. I am here about no boy's play. The success of this campaign in my judgment before God depends upon the result. It is right to be settled here and now. If you would say to the workingmen of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, New Hampshire and Massachusetts that you mean protection to their interest where you cannot say it for certain, God help you, for I cannot. [Applause.] You say now in your platform that you will discriminate in favor of the workingmen and women who are the true democracy of the country.

My very good friend Colonel Morrison will tell you that he does not believe that protecting labor or fostering and cherishing labor—I do not use the word protection because I do not want to flaunt a red flag to a bull. If he does not believe that, for more than fifty years the democratic party has told the workingmen of the country, ever since Andrew Jackson in 18[illegible] declared in favor of a judicious tariff, that a tariff did afford protection to them. And they believed it. And they have taught it to their children and their children's children, and they are to vote, not you. You cannot unteach them that in a single campaign unless you get the chairman of the sub committee who drew the platform, the gentleman from New York, to go to every school district in this country and explain it. [Applause.] I speak in the interest therefore of the democracy. I speak for your success, and it is for you to say whether you will grasp the success when it is laid down to your hand. I do not intend to ask a vote upon any resolution but this tariff resolution, and I shall submit this tariff resolution as an amendment instead of the resolution which you have heard read. It was passed through our committee by the cry, "Oh, we must appeal to the sub committee." I said, "I will appeal to the convention, for they have got to sustain the democracy of the country," and therefore [illegible] I desire to call your attention to one or two other of the planks which I will not submit to the convention, for I know you are anxious to get through with your duties and go home. The first I want to call your attention to is the difference of the planks about the currency. I affirm the doctrine of Andrew Jackson that the government alone can [illegible], and I had rather be wrong with Jackson than be right with your committee. [Applause and laughter. Cries of "Time" from those in the galleries. The chairman rapped for order.]

A voice from the gallery—"Let him go on."

General Butler—I then affirmed another proposition, which is that the legal tender currency which fought our battles, saved the life of your nation, paid the soldiers' wages and the pensions of their widows, and [illegible] freed 4,000,000 slaves, declared to be the constitutional currency of the supreme court in solid judgment, eight to one, not eight to seven [laughter], is the currency of the people, good as gold and better than silver. That being established by the highest tribunal in the land, I [illegible] desire [illegible] only worth 80 cents [illegible] Chicago [illegible] up a currency discussion, and therefore I say I will [illegible]. [Applause.] What is the answer? I represent many greenback men—good and true greenback men like Allen G. Thurman. [Applause and laughter and cries of "Thurman."] Those men are willing to come with you and to root out the corruption and wrong from the government if you will save them. How do you receive them? By a plank drawn by a capitalist that [illegible] in favor of honest money. Who is not [illegible] [applause] if there is any such man? It is a phrase of contempt upon the greenback [illegible] of this nation. It is a phrase not original, so he can not get a patent for it, but cribbed from the taunts of my old friends the republicans. Why didn't he say rag baby? Why didn't he get up some other insulting epithet to the greenback men? Think of it a moment. There are 100 districts in congress where the change of 500 men one way or the other will change the incumbent of the seat, and there are more than three quarters of a million of greenbackers, honest and true, who knew what they were about when you did not. [Applause and laughter.] They advocated the greenback when everybody and the lawyers were crying out it was unconstitutional. Now the highest court has decided they were right. Thurman was right, the greenbackers were right. We [illegible] farming greenbackers were better lawyers than the kid gloved members of the bar. The man from Ohio (Mr. Thurman) knew it and he knows [illegible] of the democracy. If any man, as a [illegible], wants gold and silver, be it so, but let us enjoy the paper currency which has now become a fixed fact, and let us stop all agitation.

There is one other plank in your platform to which I do not agree. There are many, I believe, something like twenty times—fifteen will be enough—that you will repeat in your platform how much you love labor, but you have not made any specific proposition but one in their favor, and that is made for the protection of capital. There is another trouble. You start off in your platform [illegible] point and say you are for an honest civil service reform. Now I will venture to say there is not a man in this convention that is in favor of civil service reform unless he is a schoolmaster. [Cries of "Time." In the silence.] One of the first statesmen of Ohio—one who would have a right to have been brought here by his delegation and put before you for your suffrage as president, an able and learned man—got carried away by the doctrines and started what is known as civil service reform, and it buried him so far out of sight with the Ohio democracy that he has never been heard of since. [Laughter.] What is this civil service reform? It is to give the man the preference who shall appear to have the most learning. He signs a paper containing questions, and if he can answer the questions he is said to be selected. Now what I want is the man from the people, earnest man of capacity and integrity, to have the office, and you cannot learn that by any school or examination. Whose portrait is this above my head? It is the portrait of George Washington, and he could not have passed an examination for a clerkship in the post office. [Loud cries of "Time" from the audience. "Give me a rest," etc. Cries from the delegates to "Go on." The chair finally succeeded in obtaining order by the vigorous use of the gavel.] Let me repeat, George Washington could not have passed a civil service examination in the capital for a $1200 clerkship. His early education was neglected, and in his will, written by his own hand, he spelled clothes "clouthe." Therefore I have said that the offices belong to the people, and there ought to be frequent changes of office in order to look over the books and see who are defaulters, and they want to be all turned out, or else when you try to punish them they will protect one another as they did in the star route trial. Again I want frequent change of office in order to counteract the great tendency of these times to a caste aristocracy of life officers. If an office is a good thing, then I want all the people to have a chance at it. [Laughter.] If it is a bad thing it is too hard to put it on a poor fellow for his life. [Laughter.]

In the closing moments of the time permitted to me I want to call your attention back to the main thing, because all of these other matters are matters of very slight consequence in the comparison. Bring your minds once more back to this tariff platform. Tell them this to-night—that the working men and women of this country to-night, whether we will or will not protect them—no, not protect, but cherish and foster like a mother her child—the laboring men and women of this country; tell them that and you will sweep the country. But [illegible] tell them that, and they, sorrowful that the democratic party has deserted them, will go their way sadly to the workshop and remain there on election day.

Now, my friends, I shall ask a call of the states upon the substitution of my tariff plank for the tariff plank of the platform. There are objections; there are free trade notions against protection. Theoretically I am a free-trader myself. [Applause in the gallery, cries of "Time" and considerable confusion.] [The chair rapped vigorously, and when order had been restored General Butler resumed as follows:] But practically, while you have got to raise two hundred millions a year by custom duties, there is no such thing as free trade. Therefore, so long as we raise the money, see to it that you [illegible] in doing it American industry and take care of American men and women laboring for their support. Then let me say to you that if you do that the democracy shall go on and the country prosper under their rule from year to year, from presidential election to presidential election, until the old times of democracy shall come back again, when they held the country for more than a generation of men. [Applause and yells and cheers from the galleries.]

An Opinion of Coeur d'Alene.

Spokane Falls Chronicle.

We believe the situation in the Coeur d'Alene mines has about settled down to this: Thorough prospecting and investigation by experts and shrewd business men has culminated in the verdict that there is in that locality one of the richest mineral camps now known in the United States, and that while it is easy of access it is difficult of operating, and requires a concentration of capital to profitably extract the precious ore from the depths of gravel and rock in which it is laid away. While large quantities of gold are being taken from a few claims which are advantageously located, many rich claims are bound under litigation and many are awaiting development through expensive machinery. Prospecting is still going vigorously on, and when the extent and value of the region is more scientifically realized and comprehensive plans for working the mines are completed we may look for the growth of an industry which will add immensely to our prosperity.

This [illegible] Meagher to believe that her daughter [illegible] the bad, and under an [illegible] she had taken the name [illegible] began a search for her. At [illegible] a great deal of excitement [illegible] following a variety of cases [illegible] claiming her as her daughter [illegible] Miss Minnie Bateman committed [illegible] days ago Mrs. Meagher [illegible] this was her daughter. They live at Mid[illegible] county and came to this city on [illegible] of some blackberries. After [illegible] both the brothers imbibed con[illegible] and then set out on their return [illegible] stopped at the Red House to take [illegible] and while hitching the horses under a [illegible] began. In [illegible] men were upon the very verge of [illegible] going so far as to say they did [illegible] longer. The latter were those who [illegible] foes and were resolved to kill [illegible] they were not locked up where they [illegible] harm. Each of these cases was [illegible] attack of delirium tremens, the do[illegible] precedes the terrible visions which [illegible] result in death. One man believed [illegible] wanted him to disrobe and [illegible] police promise that if they came [illegible] he was well killed before they [illegible] Such men as this are locked [illegible] days until they have become so[illegible] are released. An old woman who [illegible] said she was going to kill herself [illegible] find a coffin and began hunting [illegible] the corridors for one. Mr. [illegible] thoroughly conversant of all the [illegible] The case will be set down for trial as [illegible]

[illegible] FROM A CONVICTION FOR VAGRANCY.—[illegible] yesterday overruled the demurrer [illegible] Charles Whetstone, charged with va[illegible] and fined him $40. He was allowed till to [illegible] to appeal. City Attorney Fox [illegible] appeal bond be fixed at enough to [illegible] of taking the case to the supreme [illegible] the city should be beaten in the [illegible] and the questions at issue the validity of [illegible] the right of the city to tax such [illegible] be thoroughly settled. The appeal bond [illegible] fixed at $150.

[illegible] THE DEFENDANTS.—Mrs. [illegible] Frank [illegible] against Goldsmith & Lowenberg, [illegible] asked $2500 damages for the loss of [illegible] her son, the hand which lost [illegible] while the young man was in the em[illegible] defendants. The jury yesterday morn[illegible] a verdict in favor of the defendants, [illegible] the costs of the court upon Mrs. [illegible] The Fryman believed that the accident [illegible] lost his fingers was the result of [illegible] negligence.

[illegible] CLUB ORGANIZED.—The First ward [illegible] club organized last night [illegible] was elected president and John O. [illegible] The meeting was held on the [illegible] of Second and C streets. About [illegible] signed the roll.

TRAFFIC IN CHINESE WOMEN.—The matter of smuggling Chinese into this country is attracting considerable attention and is being commented upon by the New York press, which, however, displays but little knowledge of the matter. The principal part of the business consists in bringing over Chinese women, which it is claimed by many there is no law to prevent. A short time since one Lee Moy went to Victoria to bring to this city his wife, who had arrived from China and had a passport. Frank Lee, a sanctimonious looking American and China [illegible] asked Lee Moy to bring over at the same time a Chinese woman whom he wished to marry. This woman was in debt there, and Lee Moy [illegible] paying her debts [illegible] $165 [illegible] would pay the balance [illegible] This [illegible] and when Lee Moy called to ask for his [illegible] Frank Lee refused to pay and threatened to have [illegible] arrested as a highbinder. This [illegible] the [illegible] is growing out [illegible] this business. [illegible] over here [illegible] Sau Francisco [illegible] and for which [illegible] it is said. The firms who gave [illegible] failed, but that was the end of this [illegible] captive [illegible] here [illegible] for [illegible] days [illegible] shows that the business is still [illegible]

RETURNED TO THE ASYLUM.—Mrs. [illegible] Smith, the crazy woman who came to Dr. [illegible] East Portland some time ago, and who [illegible] as a former patient at the state insane asylum and consequently turned over to the county authorities was taken back to the asylum by [illegible] yesterday. [illegible] Stearns received a letter from Dr. Carpenter, superintendent of the asylum, giving a description of the woman who was released two months ago, which tallied exactly with the woman in the jail. The letter stated that the woman had been given over to the care of her husband, who [illegible] and he said to take her back to her relatives in Oakland. What has become of him or how the wife escaped from him we cannot find out, but [illegible] Portland [illegible] town.

HEAVY FAILURE.—Finch Bros., general merchandise dealers at Cottage Grove, Lane county, have been attached by their creditors. Their liabilities are over $8,000 [illegible] assets $2,000. About six years ago the firm made a settlement with their Portland creditors, and ever since that time have not been on a firm financial basis. Of their present indebtedness $4,800 is due to Portland jobbers, a like amount to San Francisco merchants, and the [illegible] their mercantile debts for about $800 contracted prior to their settlement in [illegible] which have not been paid. The balance of the [illegible] $3,000 is due to local creditors, principally [illegible] to [illegible] farmers. One of the firm [illegible] was arrested charged with fraud and taken [illegible] yesterday.

WILD STEER.—W. W. Davy, who resides on Mount Zion, complains that the residents of that delectable elevation are terrorized by a wild bovine which is running at large there. He is not sure whether the animal is one of the bulls of the herd or a tremendous steer escaped from some drove, and if it is a steer that the owner [illegible] larger use [illegible] does not gather it into his fold forthwith it will be killed. Probably the owner will have to kill it before long, as it is likely the steer is bound to die anyhow. If there were any way of communicating this information to the brute he would probably shake the dust of Zion's hill from his hoofs and flee to the mountains.

SUING FOR MONEY LOANED.—Trial of the case of Thomas Brazell vs. S. D. Daniels was begun yesterday in the state circuit court. Brazell claims that his wife loaned Daniels $100, which the latter has never returned or any part of it. The suit was first brought before Justice Davis, where a verdict was given for the plaintiff. The defendant appealed and upon this appeal the case is now being tried. M. F. Mulkey is the attorney for the plaintiff and Sears & McGinn for the defendant.

FAST BOAT.—Captain J. B. Scott has contracted with Joseph La Quet for the hull, and with the Willamette Iron works for the machinery, of a steamer to be built forthwith. She is to be a stern wheel boat a little larger than the Emma Hayward, and is to be built for speed. It is the intention to make her the fastest boat on the river. She will ply between this city and Astoria.

BASE BALL.—The Star base ball club were in readiness to go to Dallas this morning and play a return game with the Alerts in the afternoon, but they did not receive the expected information that the Dallas boys had provided conveyances from Derry. Hence they will not go. A match with the Portlands may be arranged for Sunday.

OREGON FRUIT GOING EAST.—J. B. Page, the commission merchant, has orders for 10,000 pounds peach plums, 4000 pounds to go to Fargo, Dakota, 4000 pounds to Minneapolis and 5000 pounds to St. Paul. The Northern Pacific express took 500 [illegible] boxes yesterday, and the remainder of the order is to follow this and next week.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT.—Judge Deady will deliver an opinion in that court this morning in the [illegible] demurrer to the bill in the case of Kaber vs. Balm [illegible] and Bottman.

There is a large amount of tailings at some of our old quartz mills, hitherto of no value whatever. The new reduction works in this city it appears can work these over again to a large profit. Every dollar thus saved is so much more wealth for the state.

Word comes from the cape that yesterday morning boat No. 14 of the Union Packing Company was found bottom upward with both men gone. Their names were Ploening; they were brothers, and in all probability the poor fellows have met the same sad death that has made the record of disaster at the mouth of the river such a mournful one.—Astorian.

Judge Moreland, of the police court, yesterday filed with the county clerk the transcript, memorandum and lists of witnesses in fourteen cases sent up by him for investigation by the grand jury. Two of the cases are for adultery, one for assault with intent to kill, two for burglary and the remainder larceny cases. Seven out of the fourteen defendants are considered as booked for the penitentiary sure and the others not so certain.

A PROTEST AND AN APPEAL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Is it right that bands of music employed by beer garden and trotting park interests should break up the quiet and sacredness of places of public worship on the Lord's day?

In the midst of our forenoon services, for two or three Sundays past, a hired band of music drawn from one point to another by a span of horses has planted itself almost directly across the street from The Church of Sea and Land, and regardless of our rights and privileges as orderly and God fearing citizens have discoursed upon their loud mouthed instruments for the avowed purpose of drawing people to their pleasure and drinking resorts, greatly disturbing the devotions and worship of the sanctuary.

Surely we have some rights that even beer gardens and trotting park interests ought to respect on the Lord's day. We do respectfully ask these parties to forbear, and allow us uninterruptedly to worship God according to the dictates of our own conscience.

CHAPLAIN STUBBS.

W. C. T. U. CORRESPONDENCE.

There was considerable rejoicing at the regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. this week over the report brought in by Mrs. Riggs and Mrs. Clarke, who had been appointed a committee to secure a more [illegible] location as headquarters for their work. After months of perseverance they have been unable to sublet the hall they are now occupying so as to bring in a revenue and thus aid in meeting the expenses of carrying forward their work. It is [illegible] the fear of [illegible] stairs has prompted them to change their base of operations. Mrs. Riggs reported a room on Fifth near Alder, which she deemed very desirable, being convenient to street cars, etc. She also reported an interview with Mr. H. W. Corbett, the owner of the building, who offers the ladies the use of the room located on the north side of this block for $30. They have decided to so up their work in their present location by giving a series of dinners for about ten days from 5 to 7 P. M. each day, beginning this evening. We appeal to the public to lend a generous patronage, as it is necessary that we replenish our treasury to meet present obligations, expenses of moving, etc.

MRS. CLARKE, Secretary.

WARDE'S VIRGINIUS.

One of the largest audiences of the season was present last evening to witness the [illegible] of Mr. F. B. Warde's personation of the title role in Sheridan Knowles' historic tragedy "Virginius," and if there were any [illegible] they were well repaid the next morning. No finer exhibition of dramatic art has ever been seen on the boards of the New Market stage than that given by Mr. Warde as Virginius and Miss Forsythe as the fair Virginia. The rendering of these two parts was a very cameo, clean cut and so singly perfect in every detail.

The play itself, after the first act, is tragedy of the extreme, dealing at the same time with the basest as well as the noblest passions of the human soul. The story is too well known by every school boy to need retelling. [illegible] the tyrant Appius Claudius [illegible] fair and innocent Virginia, daughter of a Roman centurion, Virginius, the claiming of her by his client Claudius as his slave [illegible] save her from dishonor except by putting her [illegible] tyrants [illegible]

After the great [illegible] scene Mr. Warde received a [illegible] curtain, calling before the curtain [illegible] enthusiastic recall [illegible] such as [illegible] leader might receive from his devoted [illegible]

Miss Forsythe as Virginia [illegible] maiden [illegible] the part with fidelity to nature. There is not much opportunity for Virginia to do a great thing [illegible] chief care should be to be [illegible] of the play. This Miss Forsythe did [illegible] her loves she was all that could be desired and her portraiture of the ill starred maiden was a beautiful picture of [illegible] innocence. The Dentatus of W. J. C. [illegible] was well done, as well as the [illegible] of W. J. Shea at [illegible] the Servia of Miss Fletcher.

THE EAST SIDE.

CHINESE LAUNDRYMAN SUED.

Henry Freeborough, of Mount Tabor, brought suit against Sing Lee, of East Portland, in Justice [illegible] court for $15 damages, costs and disbursements claimed under the following circumstances: Defendant returned the washing of plaintiff with a number of articles missing, the shortage not being [illegible] until after the bill was settled. Upon plaintiff identifying and demanding the missing articles at defendant's place of business he refused to relinquish their possession and he was compelled to take legal proceedings in order to recover them. He then entered suit for damages incurred by this action and costs and disbursements of the suit. Judge Woodward appeared for the Chinaman and offered to pay the costs in settlement of the case, but this being refused the attorney and his client left and judgment was entered against the defendant. Whether execution can be made effective remains to be seen.

He was then conveyed to the [illegible] Dr. Coly sent for. The doctor found no bones broken, though he was suffering from a severe concussion of the spine. William [illegible], brother of John [illegible], is on his way here from England to organize a company for deep sea fishing, a business he has followed in England with much success.

A more commodious depot building is to be built at [illegible] street crossing. It will be located on the [illegible] corner of the intersection. The rapidly increasing business at this point demands a larger depot building and more accommodations.

The boom is proving a boomerang in more respects than one, but in none is it more apparent than in the matter of rents. Prices have tumbled from [illegible] to [illegible] per cent, while the supply of accommodations is in excess of the demand. To illustrate: a few days [illegible] residence [illegible] street which formerly rented for [illegible] was recently lowered to $10 to secure a tenant. But still rents are high enough; in fact too high for many people during the present hard times.

THE REUNION AT McMINNVILLE.

[illegible] McMINNVILLE, July 17.

A showery forenoon yesterday threatened to interfere with the exercises of the day, but by the time the parade was finished sunny weather was had. The afternoon passed off pleasantly enough. At 10 A. M. the procession formed and started for the grounds, the crowd having been largely increased by morning arrivals. [illegible] Lamb and five aides, as [illegible] General [illegible] and four aides, all wearing the Grand Army uniform, led the two divisions. Arriving at the grounds the procession [illegible] or [illegible] camp [illegible] from [illegible] race track. The first division [illegible] B. Mattis W. P. One of the Sheridan cavalry was shot in the leg with a wad, making a slight wound.

Mrs. Loughary's address of welcome to the veterans at the dinner was [illegible] She was frequently applauded, and three cheers were given her and the committee at the close.

The toasts were all spoiled by a heavy shower during the dinner. The rain continued most of the evening.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

THURSDAY, July 17.

The produce movement continues to be slow for reasons repeatedly stated. Harvest time will cause even more quiet to rule. Values have taken no very important turn and remain generally steady. The rains of the present week are expected to throw down more or less wheat as many fields were almost ready for the reaper. Yesterday's rain was general as far south as Eugene City. The greater fall was at this point. Along the west side the rain was too light to do harm. Between North Yamhill and Forest Grove hard showers fell this forenoon. In the city a very hard shower was had which, if general, certainly threw down some grain. From the entire length of the valley cereals are forward, wheat being very much so, and it is growing thick and full. If the general acreage shows the same increase as Yamhill and Washington counties the outturn will be a material increase upon previous seasons. In the eastern section rain fell in the week at Dayton, Riparia and Walla Walla. Detailed reports are given elsewhere. If no worse a matter than delay to harvest follows the rain farmers will not grumble. Some fears of rust have been raised at several valley points, but the best information at hand does not warrant apprehension. California is at this time harvesting a crop of great value, and if market values show the improvement hoped for the Pacific coast will receive substantial reward.

FREIGHTS—The Belle of Oregon is the only arrival for a week and she is on the disengaged list. The Red Cross sailed with wheat, the Jamieson with salmon and the Woodlark finishes with salmon, leaving the City of Delhi as the only loading vessel. Tonnage en route has received three additions and consequently shows a slight increase. There are no tonnage engagements to report, spot or future. The best information points to the conclusion that very little has been done in futures. At San Francisco a number of wooden ships have accepted grain freights on basis of 35s to Liverpool, after a long wait at cable's length. With us a nominal quotation would mean nothing, as no business is talked of at this time.

FLOUR—A fair local trade is doing at $4 75 for standard brands and $4@4 50 for outside.

MILLSTUFFS—Receipts are quite up to requirements and the market shows nothing new. We quote jobbing prices: Bran $14@16, chop $22 50, shorts $20, middlings $25, ground barley $24@26, oil meal $36.

OATS—Stocks are not excessive but offerings show material increase and are liberal. Sales of good feed are made at 47@47½c but the undertone is deemed weak, holders showing increased anxiety to realize. At San Francisco new are largely offered and at low figures.

POTATOES—Under increased offerings dealers lowered their paying price to 75c per cental and plenty are to be had at this. Old are not inquired for to any extent, remaining stocks fully meeting the little request.

ONIONS—Reds selling at 1c and whites at 1½c.

VEGETABLES—Cabbage selling at 1@2½c per pound, cauliflower at $1 25 per dozen. Turnips and carrots sell at $1 50 per sack but are weaker.

GREEN FRUIT—Apples selling down to 75c while best qualities of California bring $1. Peaches irregular at $1@ 75. Apricots sell at $1@1 25. Cherries, currants and gooseberries not generally obtainable. Garden blackberries coming in but not in open market.

TROPICAL FRUITS—Cool weather again lessens the request. Oranges $4, Sicily lemons $11 50, limes $1 25, bananas $3 75.

CHEESE—Choice Clatsop, 6c; other kinds weak at 13@14c.

PROVISIONS—Eastern in free receipt. Stocks of local continue to show reduction. Jobbing values are steady at: Bacon 11½@12½c, shoulders 8@9c, local country cured hams 14@15c, best local 16@17c, eastern 15@18. Lard in tins 10½c, kegs 11@12c, best local tins and small eastern tins 12@13½c.

DRIED FRUIT—Only a seasonable movement is had. We quote: Sun dried apples 9@10, factory in boxes 15@16c, eastern in barrels 9½, pears in boxes 15c, sun dried plums 12@15c, boxes 15c, peaches 10@11c, prunes 8@12c, figs 9c, raisins $1 75@2 per box.

BUTTER—Common store local brings 20c, and choice roll 25@30c; California roll 25c, and eastern tub 22@24c.

POULTRY—Chickens sold up to $3@3 50 for young and 25 for old, and values are firm at the moment. Old geese and ducks not wanted. Young bring $7@8 and $5@7 50.

SALMON—The run has so increased that even the limitation of the number of fish to be received from a boat finds the canners with more than they can handle. Should this continue the month out the output will be very satisfactory, as it is now not greatly behind a similar time last year. The Jessie Jamieson has sailed for London with 22,515 cases, and the Woodlark has cleared for Liverpool with 5,105 cases. The movement in other directions is not marked.

EGGS—A steady market has ruled at 30c, with prospect of this being continued.

HAY—Rains interfere with cutting this week. The bulk of that already cut has been safely stored. Dealers find no difficulty in obtaining stocks at $10@12. Very little loose moving.

HIDES, ETC.—Market dull and slow at 15@16c for selected dry and 7@8c for green. Tallow 5½@6c. Quote furs and skins. Dark beaver $4 75@2 50, under lower advices; valley summer deerskins 27½c, do winter do, 25c, eastern Oregon summer do 27½c, do winter do 18c per lb; elk skins 15c per pound. The following sell by the skin: Black bear $10@6, brown do 50c @$5; dark fisher, $3 50@6, pale do 50@$1; silver fox $5@25, cross do $2@5, red do 75c@$1 50; lynx 37½@50c; prime dark marten, 25@75c; dark mink, 10@40c; land otter, $1 50@5 50; wolf 37½@... Elk hides tending down.

HOPS—Both buyers and growers are awaiting more definite reports from Great Britain. In the mean time very little is being done in America, and advices from the Atlantic side are of a less cheering character. However, there is good reason to believe that paying prices will rule.

WOOL—Advices report even duller markets elsewhere, and ours is quite neglected so far as open business is concerned. In a small way some valley is changing hands, generally at 14@15½ cents, but it is not safe to quote any quality beyond this. Most buyers have withdrawn from coast markets, and little in the way of trading can be looked for until fall. There is nothing of moment in advices, as all point to extreme dullness and a lower tendency.

WOMAN'S SUFFERING AND RELIEF.

Those languid, tiresome sensations, causing you to feel scarcely able to be on your feet; that constant drain that is taking from your system all its former elasticity; driving the bloom from your cheeks; that continual strain upon your vital forces, rendering you irritable and fretful, can easily be removed by the use of that marvelous remedy, Hop Bitters. Irregularities and obstructions of your system are relieved at once, while the special causes of periodical pain are permanently removed. None receive so much benefit and none are so profoundly grateful and show such an interest in recommending Hop Bitters as women.

A Postal Card Story.

I was affected with kidney and urinary
Trouble—
"For twelve years!"
After trying all the doctors and patent medicines I could hear of, I used two bottles of Hop
"Bitters;"
And I am perfectly cured. I keep it
"All the time!" Respectfully, B. F. Booth, Saulsbury, Tenn., May 4, 1883.

BRADFORD, PA., May 8, 1875.

It has cured me of several diseases, such as nervousness, sickness at the stomach, monthly troubles, etc. I have not seen a sick day in a year, since I took Hop Bitters. All my neighbors use them.

MRS. FANNIE GREEN.

$3000 Lost.

"A tour to Europe that cost me $3000 done me less good than one bottle of Hop Bitters; they also cured my wife of fifteen years' nervous weakness, sleeplessness and dyspepsia."

R. M., AUBURN, New York.

SOUTH BLOOMINGTON, O., May 1, 1879.

SIRS—I have been suffering ten years, and I tried your Hop Bitters and it done me more good than all the doctors.

MISS S. S. BOONE.

Baby Saved.

We are so thankful to say that our nursing baby was permanently cured of a dangerous and protracted constipation and irregularity of the bowels by the use of Hop Bitters by its mother, which at the same time restored her to perfect health and strength.

The Parents, Rochester, N. Y.

WHY "Royal" is Absolutely Pure.

Analysis shows the presence of Tartrate of Lime in several brands of Baking Powder placed upon the market:

"PRICE'S" Baking Powders contains Tartrate of Lime.

"PEARL" Baking Powder contains Tartrate of Lime.

"GROFF'S SNOW-FLAKE" Baking Powder contains Tartrate of Lime.

"DE LAND'S" Baking Powder contains Tartrate of Lime.

All BULK Baking Powders contain Tartrate of Lime.

The presence of this substance in the above-named Baking Powders results from the use of inferior Cream of Tartar in their manufacture. The Cream of Tartar of the market, from which they are made, contains Tartrate of Lime in amounts varying from six to ten per cent., and hence these powders contain this impurity as a foreign substance to a corresponding extent, which is of no value, but a positive detriment in any powder in which it is found.

The Royal Baking Powder is made from Cream of Tartar specially refined and prepared for its used by patent processes by which the Tartrate of Lime is totally eliminated. This highly important result has been attained only with great care, labor and expense. In money alone a quarter of a million dollars has been invested in patents, machinery and appliances, by which the crude Cream of Tartar, being procured direct from the wine districts of Europe, and subjected in this country to those exclusive processes, is rendered entirely free, not only from the objectionable Tartrate of Lime, but from other foreign substances. This adds greatly to the cost of manufacturing Royal Baking Powder; but, as all its other ingredients are selected and prepared with the same precise care, and regardless of labor and expense, an article is produced that is entirely free from extraneous substance and absolutely pure in all respects. No lime, earth, alum, or impurity of any kind can, by inadvertence or by the use of adulterated articles or otherwise, be introduced into the "Royal," and it contains no ingredients except those certified by the most eminent chemists necessary to make a pure, wholesome, and perfect baking powder.

It costs more to manufacture the Royal Baking Powder than any other, but it is, as shown by chemical analysis, the only "absolutely pure" baking powder made.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN

IS THE MOST SUCCESSFUL PHYSICIAN ON the Pacific coast in the treatment of all Chronic and Difficult Diseases of the Sexual Organs.

He will guarantee to cure any form of disease of the generative organs or private disease, if the patient follows his advice and treatment.

He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the FOLLIES OF YOUTH, such as Spermatorrhoea, or Seminal Weakness, or Loss of Perfect Vitality. Nearly two-thirds of all the chronic diseases spring either directly or indirectly from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by a majority of the Medical Profession.

Persons afflicted by any form of sexual disease or weakness often delay in calling upon the proper physician, to their own harm, from a sense of modesty, and sometimes from ignorance, and permit these diseases to exist until their constitution becomes corrupted, their organization broken down, and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence. Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances. Lost manhood perfectly restored.

Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Disease, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint and all diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure with his skill if they are curable, and if not, he will tell you so.

Consultation Free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot come to him personally. Enclose postage stamp for list.
